Code of Ethics

The Coaches Code of Ethics is intended to provide standards of professional conduct. This code is intended to provide general principles to cover most situations encountered by coaches.

- Its primary goal is the welfare and protection of the individuals and groups with whom coaches work. This code provides a common set of values upon which coaches build their professional work. It is the individual responsibility of each coach to aspire to the highest possible standards of conduct.
- Principle 1: Competence
Coaches recognize the boundaries of their particular competencies and limitations of their expertise. They provide only those services and use only those techniques for which they are qualified by education, training, or experience.
- Principle 2: Integrity
Coaches are to be honest, fair, and respectful of others.
- Principle 3: Respect for Participants and Dignity
Coaches are to respect the fundamental rights, dignity, and worth of all those taking part in sports. Coaches are to be aware of cultural, individual, and role differences, including those of age, gender, race, ethnicity, national origin, religion, sexual orientation, disability, language or socioeconomic status.
- Principle 4: Concern for Other's Welfare
Coaches seek to contribute to the welfare of those with whom they interact. When conflicts occur, coaches should attempt to resolve these conflicts and to perform their roles in a responsible fashion that avoids or minimizes harm.
- Principle 5: Responsible Coaching
Coaches are aware of their responsibilities to the community and society in which they work and live. They apply and make public their knowledge of sport in order to contribute to human welfare. Coaches should try to avoid misuse of their work and coaches must comply with the law.

Applicability of the Code of Ethics

- While many aspects of personal behavior and private activities seem far removed from official duties of coaching, all coaches should be sensitive to their position as role models for their athletes. Private activities perceived as immoral or illegal can influence the coaching environment and coaches are encouraged to observe the Code of Ethics consistently.

Acknowledgement

- I have read the above Code of Ethics and agree to follow its recommendations to the best of my ability.*
